Stanley Global Plenary

On September 11 - 12 the Stanley Center hosted 29 of our international collaborators from 8 different countries (and 4 continents) for two days. The goal of the meeting, hosted by Aarno Palotie and Ben Neale, was for Stanley Center collaborators from across the world focused on collecting and analyzing samples for psychiatric genetics to convene and discuss progress, challenges, and plans. These sessions also allowed everyone to meet colleagues face-to-face, share knowledge and troubleshoot challenges across the programs. During the course of the visit, our guests took a duck tour of Boston, and enjoyed some social time with their colleagues at the Broad. The group also toured the Genomics Platform and had the chance to visit McLean hospital and meet with several physicians and clinical researchers. Huge kudos to Samantha Zawalich for coordinating this event and many thanks to all of the project managers, particularly Alice Zheng, Felecia Cerrato, Ana Maria Olivares and Sinead Chapman for assisting with the visit as well.
